

On the Ground Reports:
How Schools Will Observe the Day of Silence

April 18, 2008

Germantown High School near Milwaukee, WI--

The school is evidently observing the Day of Silence to the extent that the school is selling Day of Silence T-shirts in the cafeteria. About one-third of students are expected to observe the Day of Silence and as part of the observance, the school will tie it to the mistreatment of Jews, by showing a clip from the movie, "Exodus."

Maryvale High School, Phoenix, AZ--

There is a club on our campus that promotes homosexuality unhindered through posters all over campus and over the school announcements. This club is called the Gay/Straight Alliance and very few parents seem to know about it.

Teachers are required to attend meetings in a classroom which is the meeting place for the GSA club meetings, activities, etc. Several students and fellow teachers have expressed a high level of discomfort every time they are required to meet in this lecture hall.

The room is plastered with rainbows, pro-homosexual propaganda, news articles promoting homosexual tolerance as well as posters and articles naming persons, institutions, businesses, etc that are "against" their cause. At one teacher's meeting, the GSA advisor was allowed to present to the entire staff regarding the Day of Silence that is coming up on 4/25/08. She is going to have her club's members wear signs around their necks all day and pass out homosexual awareness/tolerance cards. Parents are not made aware of these activities.

Kirksville High School in Kirksville MO IS participating in this Day of Silence and when speaking with both the principal and superintendent they were very belittling. When asked if the children were allowed to not be in school that day or dissent, they basically laughed. They called me a narrow minded bigot and refused to give excused absences.

Please add this school the list so other parents in my town will know what is going on with their children.
